How do you react to people who, like the suitcase lady, "bum on the street"? When do you give and when do you not give? How do your choices make you feel and why?